Rosh Hashana

Holiday

Rosh Hashanah starts on the first day of Tishrei and lasts two days. This year (2008), Rosh Hashana will begin sundown Monday, September 29th. Rosh Hashana is Tuesday and Wednesday, September 30th and October 1st.

*Rosh Hashana means, "head of the year" or "first of the year."
Rosh Hashana is the Jewish New Year. (5769).*

Rosh Ha Shana is a very important holiday in the Jewish Calendar.

We celebrate Rosh Hashana with sweet foods, like apples dipped in honey, as a wish for a sweet year. We also eat symbolic foods, like the head of a fish and pomegranates.

The head of a fish means that we can be "like the head and not like the tail." We want to be leaders, and not the followers. Pomegranates are symbolic of plenty. We want plenty of health and happiness for the New Year, just as many good things as there are seeds in a pomegranate.

We send our friends greeting cards with a blessing wish « Shana Tova! » It means « Have a Happy and Sweet New Year! »
